CHEYENNE CRISIS EXPECTED TO-DAY.

Settlers Think the Hostiles Will at Once Take to the Hills.

AGENT STOUCHE ACCUSED.

Said to Have Thwarted the Agent and Deceived the Indians All Along.

Miles City, Mont., June 7.—A crisis in the Indian trouble will be reached to-morrow when Sheriff Gibbs and Deputy Sheriff Smith will arrive at the Lane Deer agency. The Sheriff will hand Indian Agent Stouche the warrants for the arrest of Chief White Bull and the braves Sam Crow and Yellow Hair, charging these Cheyennes with complicity in the murder of sheep herder Hoover.

The Sheriff will demand that these Indians, who are now in camp near the agency, be immediately arrested and turned over to the civil authorities, and that demand will very likely be backed up by instructions to Stouche to the same effect from Secretary Bliss.

Sheriff Gibbs has ascertained that Hoover was murdered by a war party under White Bull. He has also learned that Agent Stouche represented to the Indians that if Badger, who was in that war party, and who fired the first shot at Hoover, was surrendered, the incident would be closed. Stouche is evidently in a bad situation, and if there is an outbreak the responsibility for it will rest with him.

Ready to Put on War Paint. It is thought here that when he is forced to demand the surrender of White Bull and the others, the Indians will accuse him of bad faith and resist, and take to the hills in war paint.

The Cheyennes have been so leniently dealt with on the Lane Deer Reservation that they are now exceedingly hard to handle. County Attorney T. J. Porter, of Custer County, tells me that during the winter these Indians destroyed $10,000 worth of cattle belonging to ranchers near the reservation and that some of the cattle were slain wantonly and not for food. He declares that the published statement that this trouble had been fomented by stockmen with the idea of getting the Government to move the Cheyennes so that the reservation may be thrown open to settlers is absolutely false. He says the Indians made all the trouble and cites the fact that the Cheyennes have in the past few years murdered many white men and not one Indian has been slain by stockmen or ranchers. Mr. Porter sent the following dispatch last evening to United States Senator Thomas H. Carter in Washington, and he believes that Senator Carter will immediately ask Secretary Bliss to order Stouche to do his duty.

Charges Against Stouche. Agent Stouche yesterday turned over Stanley (Badger), but he has not secured any evidence against him, and seems determined to keep the Sheriff from making any investigation. Five other Indians are suspected, and vigorous steps to secure evidence should be put forth. Stouche absolutely refuses to co-operate with the Sheriff in securing evidence, and is delaying, thwarting the Sheriff in every possible manner.

Stouche's defiance of the reservation. The Indians tell the Sheriff that Stouche agreed to assist the surrender of Stanley in full satisfaction for the murder of Hoover. Stouche is certainly inefficient. I therefore urgently request that he be immediately instructed to co-operate with the Sheriff in securing evidence against all these murderers, and also urge that he be relieved by some competent man.

A school teacher who had been teaching on Otter Creek, near the reservation, and about sixty miles from here, arrived last evening, having ridden the entire distance on a bicycle in one day. She reports seeing several small bands of Indians prowling around the reservation. Over 200 Indians are off the reservation, scattered in small bands, roaming the country and committing depredations and devouring everything in their line of march. There are said to be 1,500 Indians on the reservation. The dance houses, built for the Indians some time ago by Captain Stouche and others, will be torn down and the large drum taken away from them, and all "bad medicine" made hereafter will have to be made in open air.

EUI WHA TO STUDY HERE.

Corea's Future King Will Complete His Education in an American College.

San Francisco, June 7.—Prince Eui Wha, who will probably succeed to the throne of Corea on the death of his father, the reigning King, arrived here yesterday on the steamship Coptic from the Orient. The young man has come to America to finish his education, and is accompanied by two Coreans of noble birth. Yong Kiu and Sin Sang Koo. The first named, who was Charge d'Affaires of the Korean Legation at Washington for three years, has been recommended by the King of Corea to accompany the Prince to America and see him comfortably established in some Eastern institution of learning where he can take the three years' course in English branches. Prince Eui Wha is not the heir apparent to the Korean throne. He is the second son of the King, but is expected to succeed, since it is generally understood that the Crown Prince is an imbecile.

Schlatter, the "Divine Healer," Whose Skeleton Has Been Found in Mexico.

COWBOY FOUND SCHLATTER'S BODY

No Doubt That the Healer Died of Starvation.

CARRIED A DIVINING ROD.

When Last Seen Alive He Was Pointing in Toward Mexico.

Paso del Norte, Tex., June 7.—What was mortal of Francis Schlatter is now crumpling to dust under the fierce suns of Mexico. Schlatter, the Healer, the untutored cobbler of Colorado, whose wondrous cures caused the fame, the bait and the blind from all over the world to flock to Denver, has gone the way of all mortality. His bones lie buried at the base of a barren mountain in Chihuahua. On the 29th of last month a Mormon cowboy, riding his range thirty-five miles west of Casa Grande, saw a saddle, bridle, hat and slicker hanging from the limb of a lonely scrub oak. Expecting to find a camp, he left the trail and rode to the tree. Reclining in a perfectly natural pose under the tree on a blanket, he found the bleached skeleton of a man.

The bones were as naked of flesh as of clothing. The skull was bare and white and glistened in the sunlight. The skeleton was lying on its back, with the right hand resting on the chest and the left arm stretched straight out as to the body. The right foot was drawn so as to bend the knee up, while the left leg was stretched straight out.

There was no evidence of a struggle, but everything indicated that the man had passed away peacefully while resting. Beside the skeleton lay a copper rod about three and a half feet long.

Identified by His Bible. Lying against the tree was a pile of clothes, on top of which were two memoranda books and a Bible. On the inside cover of the Bible was inscribed the name: "Francis Schlatter," and under the name were two verses of a prayer, and over all the verses was the address, "Clarence J. Clark, Denver, Col."

The cowboy then turned his attention to the articles hanging in the tree. There was a saddle made by a Denver house, a bridle, rope, white felt hat and a canteen containing water. Over all of these hung a skeleton, which protected the articles from the weather. There was nothing in the shape of cooking utensils or any provisions to be found. The man of the skeleton had evidently starved to death. The cowboy making the find reported the matter to the judge at Casa Grande, who took charge of the skeleton and effects and they were photographed.

The first news of the discovery that reached this city was brought by Contractor Richard Caples, George Look, F. G. Stanley and Frank Barnum, who came in from Casa Grande, a little Mexican town on the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific Railroad. While at Casa Grande they went out with the judge and saw the skeleton lying where it was found, and after they had viewed it the cowboy buried the bones beneath the tree and burned the blanket.

There can be no doubt of the identity of the remains. The healer was last heard of at Lordsburg, in New Mexico, where he rode a gray horse toward the Mexican line. When asked where he was going, he pointed to his copper healing rod, which he held aloft and toward Mexico.

INSPECTED HER BEAUX.

Mrs. Browne Advised for a Husband and Travelled Thousands of Miles Examining Candidates.

La Porte, Ind., June 7.—Mrs. Mary Browne, living near Titusville, Pa., was married to-day to Leonard Moore, a wealthy farmer of this county. Mrs. Browne, who is also reputed to be wealthy, adopted novel means to secure a husband. She advertised in the newspapers, and when aspirants for her hand in all parts of the country had submitted their proposals she started on a personal tour of investigation, during which she travelled several thousand miles, making stops at all points where prospective husbands lived. She visited Moore several weeks ago, and he was selected. Moore is upward of sixty years of age, while his wife is fifty-three, this being her third marriage and the first venture in matrimony of her successful wooer.

AMMONIA SAVED HIM.

Nicholson Used His Syringe on a Highway Robber and Made Good His Escape.

Lynn, Mass., June 7.—George L. Nicholson, of this city, who had been visiting a friend in Salem, started to ride home on his bicycle shortly after 11 o'clock. At a dark place in the road, where he was obliged to slow up, a man stopped from behind and thrust a heavy cane against Nicholson's wheel. The rider nearly fell off, but began to pedal furiously and managed to escape.

A moment later another man, accompanied by a bulldog, jumped from the roadside directly before him. The dog leaped and hit the front wheel of the bicycle. The man at the same moment seized the handle bars and ordered Nicholson to get off and shell out.

Nicholson dismounted and made a pretense of getting out his pocketbook, but instead pulled out a small syringe filled with strong ammonia which he has successfully used to drive off annoying flies while riding. He quickly discharged the contents of the instrument into the highwayman's face. The man howled and put both hands to his face. Nicholson snatched the wheel, jumped into the saddle and escaped.

BABY'S BATH IN A CANAL. Frantic Mother Nearly Drowned, but Both Were Rescued in Time.

Lynn, N. Y., June 7.—Mrs. Saxon G. Palmer called upon Mrs. N. D. Hatch yesterday and left her eighteen-month-old daughter Marquette in a perambulator on the street. A gust of wind caught the carriage and blew it down a gentle decline to the Erie Canal, into which the child was thrown. Her clothing spread out on the water, and she floated.

Some children alarmed Mrs. Palmer, who rushed down and jumped into the canal. She struggled fruitlessly to reach her baby, but would have drowned had not
